

The next task is Conversations. In this task, you will listen to a conversation. You will then answer two questions to check your comprehension of the conversation.

Conversation 1

What is the man's problem?

- ☐ He forgot to get the car checked last month.
- ☐ His car battery isn't working.
- ☐ His car needs gas.
- ☐ His car makes a strange noise.

What does the man imply when he says he's "delaying the inevitable"?

- ☐ He wants to put off the repair until the weekend.
- ☐ He knows he'll eventually need a new battery.
- ☐ He doesn't believe the car can be fixed.
- ☐ He thinks the problem will fix itself.

Conversation 2

What are the speakers discussing?

- ☐ A change to the vacation policy.
- ☐ A new fashion contract.
- ☐ What they're allowed to wear at the office.
- ☐ When clients are allowed to visit the office.

What does the man clarify about the new policy?

- ☐ It applies only during client visit weeks.
- ☐ It applies to all employees permanently.
- ☐ It was cancelled after complaints.
- ☐ It starts next month.

Conversation 3

What is the woman's problem?

- ☐ She ordered the wrong item.
- ☐ A package marked as delivered never arrived.
- ☐ Her package was damaged in shipping.
- ☐ She missed the delivery window.

What does the delivery photo show?

- ☐ The package on the woman's doorstep.
- ☐ The package left at the wrong building.
- ☐ The package being accepted by a neighbor.
- ☐ No photo taken at all.

Conversation 4

What is the woman's problem?

- ☐ She left her ID at home.
- ☐ She missed the library's closing time.
- ☐ She forgot her password for the computers.
- ☐ Her student ID card isn't working.

What does the man say about the temporary pass?

- ☐ It requires a small fee.
- ☐ It lasts for a week.
- ☐ It can only be used one time.
- ☐ It requires approval from a librarian.

Conversation 1

- M: My car wouldn't start again this morning. I think it might be the battery.
- W: That's the second time this month, isn't it? Maybe you should just replace it.
- M: Probably. I keep hoping it'll hold out a little longer, but I guess I'm just delaying the inevitable.
- W: I'd get it checked today. You don't want to get stranded somewhere.
- M: You're right. I'll stop by the auto shop on my way home.

Conversation 2

- W: Did you see the email about the new dress code policy? Apparently, business casual is not an option anymore on Fridays.
- M: Yeah, I read it. I guess they want everyone to look more polished for client visits.
- W: That makes sense, but I liked being able to wear jeans on Fridays.
- M: Same here. Though I heard it's only for weeks when clients are actually scheduled to visit.
- W: Oh, that's not so bad then. I must have missed that part.
- M: Yeah, easy to miss. Double check with HR just to be sure.

Conversation 3

- W: I ordered a package last week, and the app says it was delivered yesterday, but it's not at my door.
- M: That's strange. Did you check with your neighbors? Sometimes drivers leave things at the wrong unit.
- W: I did, and nobody has it. I'm starting to think it might have been taken.
- M: Before you jump to any conclusions, pull up the delivery photo in the app. Most carriers attach one now.
- W: Oh, good idea, I didn't think to check that. Wait, this isn't even my building. It's the one across the street.
- M: There you go. Just report it through the app with that photo. They'll probably redeliver it or refund you.

Conversation 4

- W: I tried swiping my student ID at the library entrance and it won't scan. I think it's demagnetized.
- M: That's happened to me before. You'll need to get a new one from the ID office in the student center.
- W: Ugh, and I have a paper due tomorrow. I really need the library computers tonight.
- M: There's a temporary pass you can request at the front desk — just show them your driver's license. It's free, and it's good for 24 hours.
- W: Oh, I didn't know that was an option. I'll ask on my way in.
- M: Just remember to get the actual replacement card this week, though. The temporary pass only works once.

Conversation 1

What is the man's problem?

- He forgot to get the car checked last month.
- His car battery isn't working.
- His car needs gas.
- His car makes a strange noise.

What does the man imply when he says he's "delaying the inevitable"?

- He wants to put off the repair until the weekend.
- He knows he'll eventually need a new battery.
- He doesn't believe the car can be fixed.
- He thinks the problem will fix itself.

Conversation 2

What are the speakers discussing?

- A change to the vacation policy.
- A new fashion contract.
- What they're allowed to wear at the office.
- When clients are allowed to visit the office.

What does the man clarify about the new policy?

- It applies only during client visit weeks.
- It applies to all employees permanently.
- It was cancelled after complaints.
- It starts next month.

Conversation 3

What is the woman's problem?

- She ordered the wrong item.
- A package marked as delivered never arrived.
- Her package was damaged in shipping.
- She missed the delivery window.

What does the delivery photo show?

- The package on the woman's doorstep.
- The package left at the wrong building.
- The package being accepted by a neighbor.
- No photo taken at all.

Conversation 4

What is the woman's problem?

- She left her ID at home.
- She missed the library's closing time.
- She forgot her password for the computers.
- Her student ID card isn't working.

What does the man say about the temporary pass?

- It requires a small fee.
- It lasts for a week.
- It can only be used one time.
- It requires approval from a librarian.